PROFILE

As an enthusiastic team player, I combine strong analytical skills with organizational and communication talent. I have autodidactic strengths as well as experience in project management, communication consulting, and organizational development. This enables me to grasp and analyze complex topics quickly and precisely. At the same time, I can communicate these in a way that is tailored to the target audience and work on them in a solution-oriented manner. Thanks to my approachable nature, high adaptability, and experience in international, diverse teams, I integrate quickly and effectively into new work environments. With these abilities, I aim to make a contribution to our society.
